Our Leadership

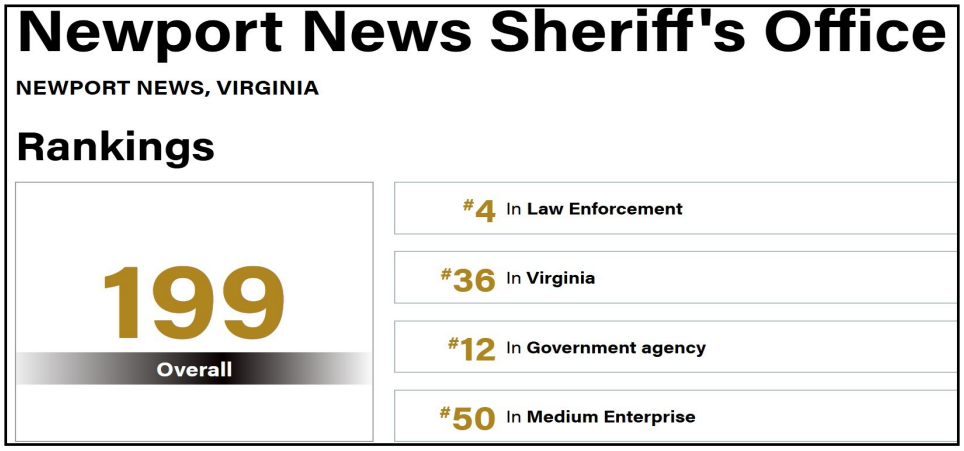

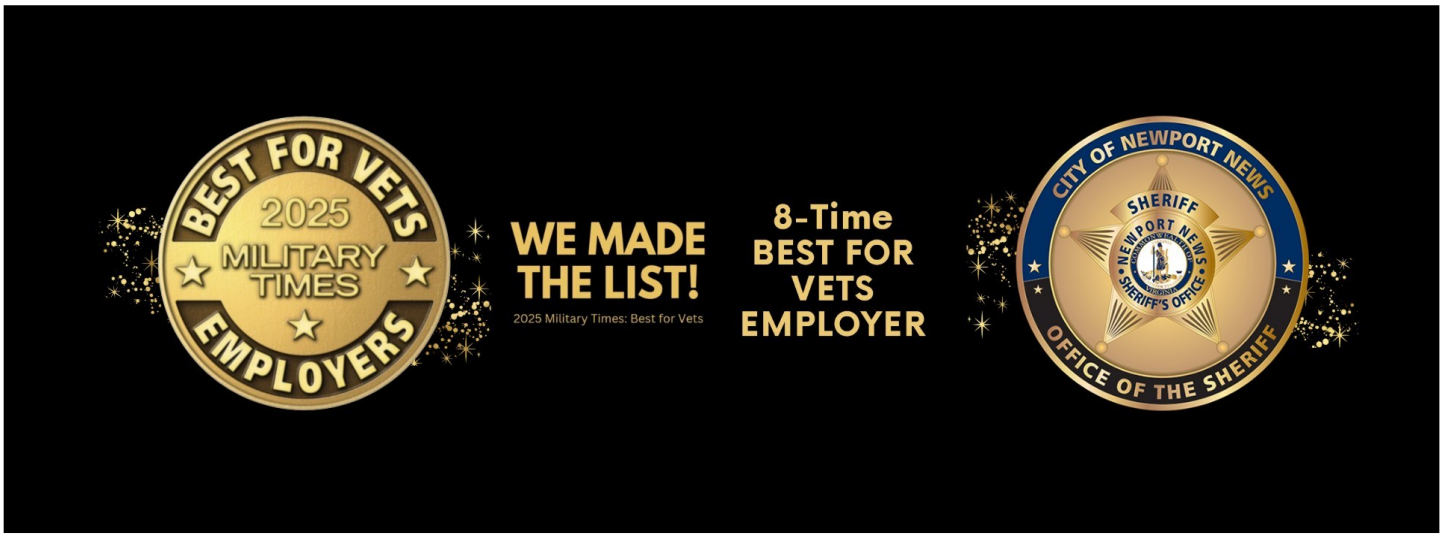

BEST FOR VETS

The Newport News Sheriff's Office was among the "2025 Best for Vets: Law Enforcement" rankings, recognizing 245 organizations that demonstrate exceptional dedication to hiring, retaining and supporting America's veterans. This is the eighth year NNSO has been honored for this recognition. Pictured are five of the 43 veterans employed by the Newport News Sheriff's Office.

Each year, Military Times surveys hundreds of companies and organizations nationwide. The methodology evaluates recruitment and onboarding practices, retention and career advancement programs, and support for veterans and military spouses. Responses are verified and scored to ensure a rigorous, unbiased ranking.

Professional Standards Bureau-Recruiting/Retention

We continue to address the challenge of identifying and recruiting qualified applicants to serve the community as deputy sheriffs. Our dynamic recruitment strategy has significantly shortened the time from application to offer, enabling us to bring top candidates into the agency more efficiently.

The 14-days-a-month work schedule with no rotating shifts and fixed days off meet the demands of today's applicants who want a positive work-life balance. Our salary and benefits package is one of the best in the region, helping us keep people longer instead of them moving from job to job.

ADMINISTRATION—BUDGET

We perform a wide range of essential services critical to maintaining the safety and security of our community. Financial support from the City supplements state funding, reinforcing our operational capabilities. This investment reflects the City's commitment to public safety and their recognition of the vital role our agency plays in protecting the community.

Administration-Personnel

A diverse law enforcement workforce is operationally and strategically important—not just a matter of optics. Diversity strengthens both the effectiveness of the agency and its relationship with the public. A workforce that is visibly inclusive attracts a broader talent pool.

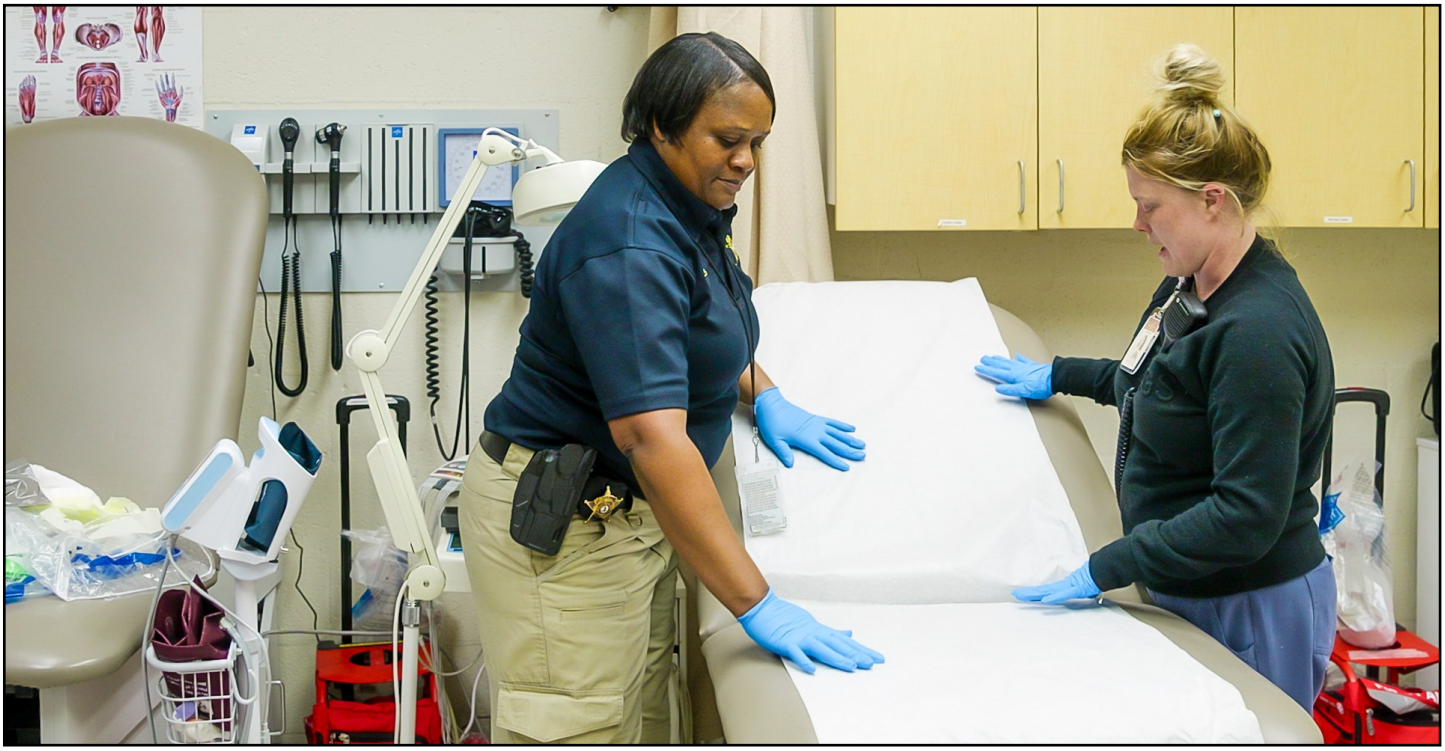

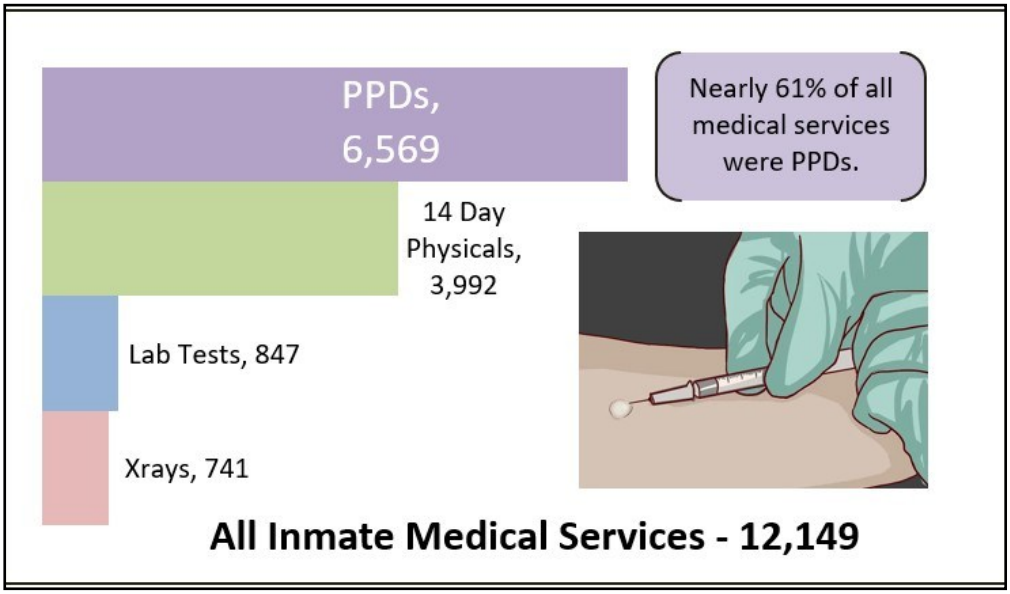

Operations Bureau-Medical

From X-rays and dental care to lab testing and physician-prescribed medications, comprehensive medical services are essential to protecting the health and safety of those in our custody. In some cases, underlying medical or behavioral health conditions may contribute to criminal behavior.

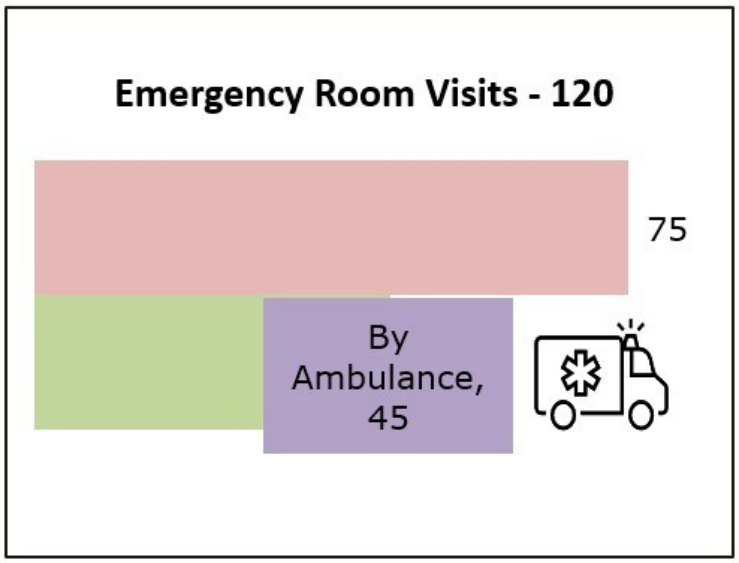

Providing access to appropriate care while incarcerated can serve as a critical first step toward recovery and help establish a continuity-of-care plan upon release.

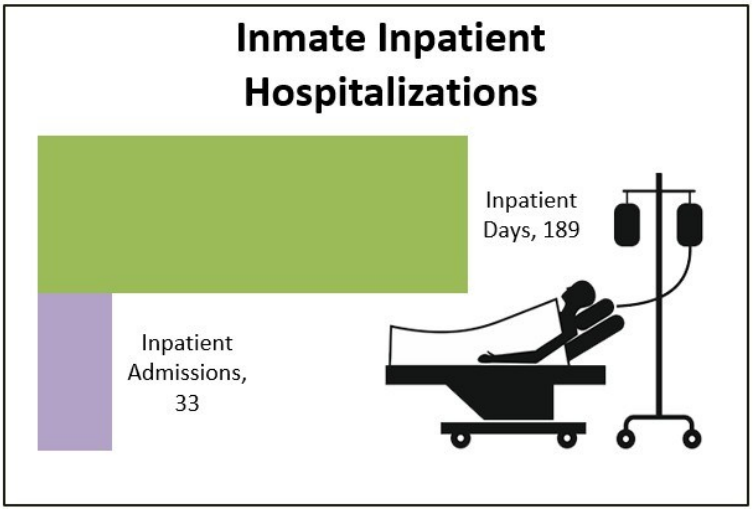

Operations Bureau-medical

Nurses work 24/7 to meet the medical needs of the inmates. When necessary, those in our custody needing additional medical care may be transported to the hospital for further assessment and treatment.

Operations Bureau-mental health

Our jail, like many correctional facilities across the country, serves not only to house individuals accused or convicted of crimes, but also to provide care for those with mental illness. Addressing these needs is a critical component of maintaining safety, stability, and overall well-being within the facility.

A significant number of individuals entering the Newport News City Jail require psychotropic medications—drugs that affect mood, behavior, perception, and thought processes. While these medications are not a cure for mental illness, they play a critical role in stabilizing symptoms and supporting overall mental health.

Operations Bureau-Dental

Dental services are provided to individuals in custody as part of our comprehensive healthcare program. In 2025, 473 inmates received dental care, supporting their overall health and well-being.

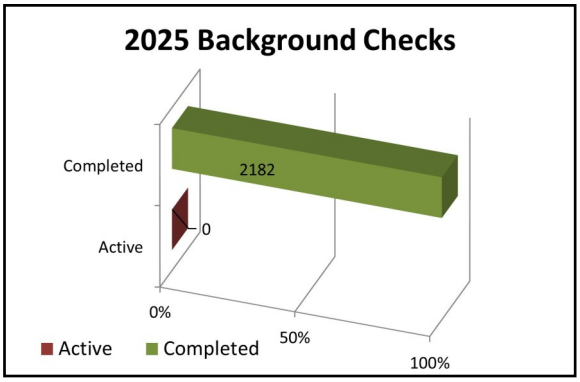

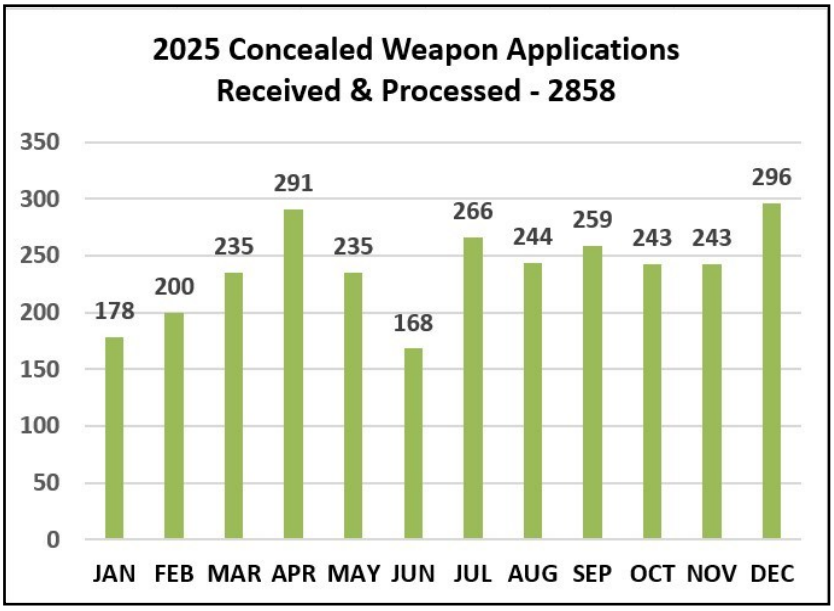

Professional Standards Bureau-Investigations

Professional Standards personnel manage a wide range of investigations critical to maintaining accountability and public trust. They review incidents reported within the Newport News Sheriff's Office—whether involving employees, contracted personnel, or inmates—ensuring each matter is handled thoroughly and objectively. In addition, the unit collaborates with local, state, and federal partners on criminal investigations across the Hampton Roads region.

These partnerships strengthen our collective ability to address complex community issues, enhance transparency, and produce outcomes that benefit both the agency and the public we serve.

The Newport News Sheriff's Office received and processed more concealed weapons permit applications in 2025 than in 2024. Under Virginia Code § 18.2-308.02, applicants must meet specific eligibility criteria to obtain a five-year permit to carry a concealed handgun. The Professional Standards Bureau plays a critical role in this process by conducting thorough background investigations to help ensure applicants are not legally prohibited from possessing a firearm. These reviews apply to both initial applications and permit renewals, supporting a process that prioritizes public safety and legal compliance.

Services Bureau-Court Security

Court Security personnel are responsible for maintaining the orderly conduct of court proceedings and ensuring the safety of everyone who enters the Newport News courthouses—including judges, jurors, attorneys, and citizens conducting business. In 2025, more than 200,000 visitors passed through the City's three courthouses without incident, reflecting the effectiveness of these security operations.

Services Bureau-LiveScan

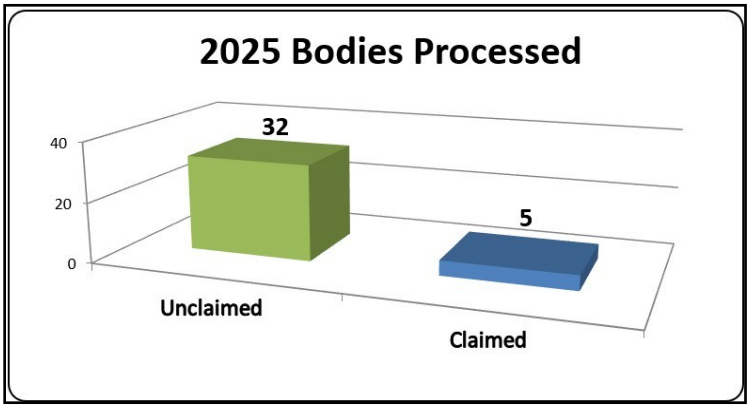

Not everyone facing criminal charges is immediately incarcerated; some individuals are released on bond or issued a summons to appear in court at a later date. If convicted, individuals are processed using the LiveScan system, which captures fingerprints, photographs (mugshots), and, in certain cases, DNA samples. In 2025, more than 600 individuals were processed using this technology.

Another responsibility of the Services Bureau is to locate next of kin for individuals who have died and remain unclaimed. When relatives cannot be identified or decline to claim the deceased, the Sheriff petitions the court for authorization to proceed with a dignified disposition of the remains.

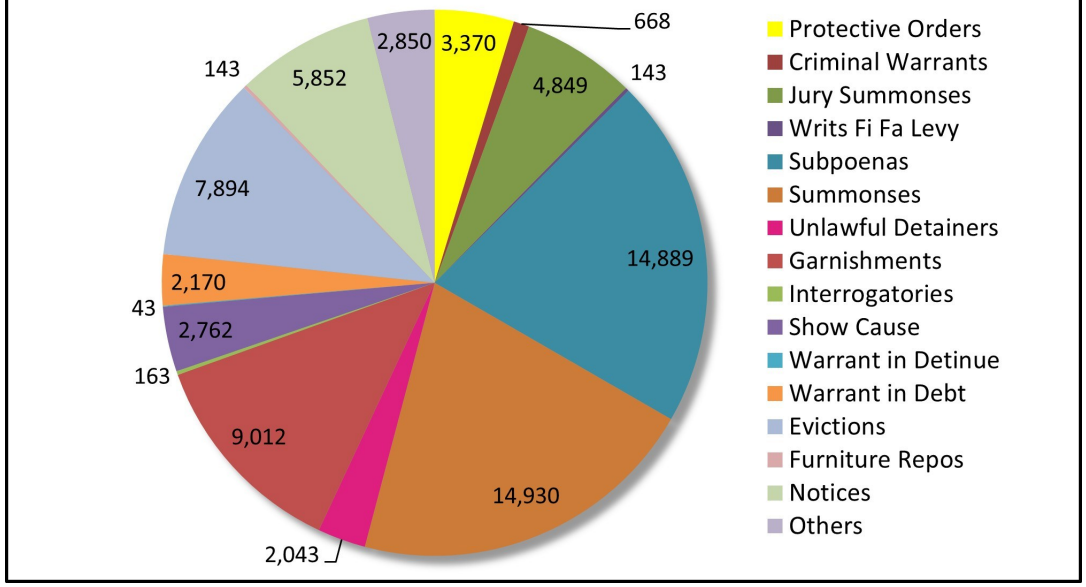

Services Bureau-Civil Enforcement

Civil Enforcement deputies spend most of their day out of the office serving papers and taking actions that are ordered by the courts. Among the documents we deliver are summonses, subpoenas, and protective orders.

Deputies are also responsible for evictions in conjunction with property managers, levies, and they conduct property auctions.

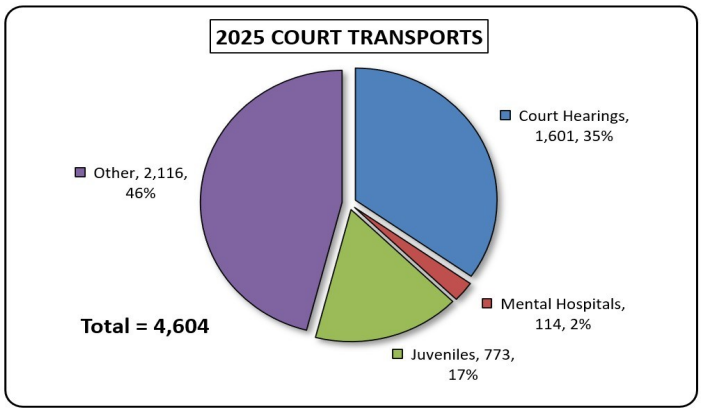

Services Bureau-Transportation

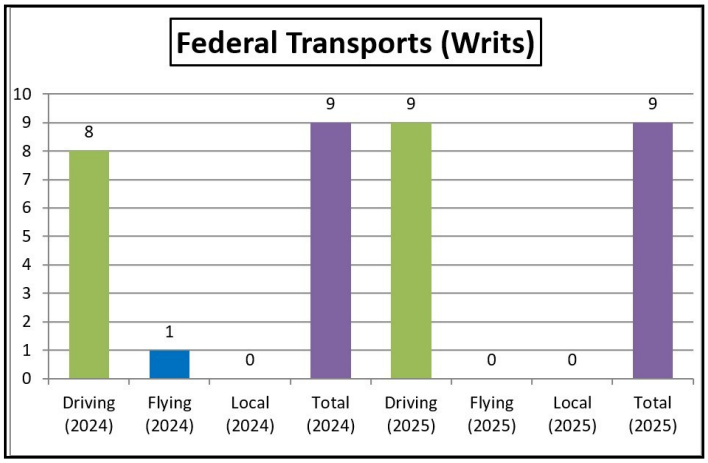

The Services Bureau is responsible for the transportation of incarcerated individuals. Deputies coordinate and conduct transports to courts in other jurisdictions, state correctional facilities, and off-site medical appointments beyond the Jail and Annex. In 2025, the Bureau completed more than 4,600 transports, underscoring the scope and logistical complexity of this critical function.

A writ is a court-issued order directing that a specific incarcerated individual be produced before the court. Transportation deputies execute these orders by ensuring individuals are moved safely, securely, and efficiently—whether by ground transport or commercial airline.

Services deputies also manage Detention Orders, Temporary Detention Orders (TDOs), and Extraditions. Extraditions are conducted either by ground transport or commercial airline, depending on distance and circumstances.

Deputies also conduct traffic stops, write tickets, and make arrests in collaboration with the police department.

A Project Lifesaver bracelet is replaced.

Civil deputies connect with families enrolled in our Project Lifesaver program, checking on them and making sure the equipment their loved one wears is working properly. Batteries in the tracking anklets and bracelets are replaced every 30 days. These bracelets help us find children and adults who wander away so we can return them to their loved ones.

Services Bureau—Sheriff's Workforce

The Sheriff's Workforce is made up of deputy sheriffs who supervise carefully vetted inmates assigned to community work details. These crews operate year-round, supporting city operations by setting up for public events, maintaining streets and right-of-ways, assisting with moves to municipal storage sites, and working in coordination with the city's 311 center to address citizen service requests.

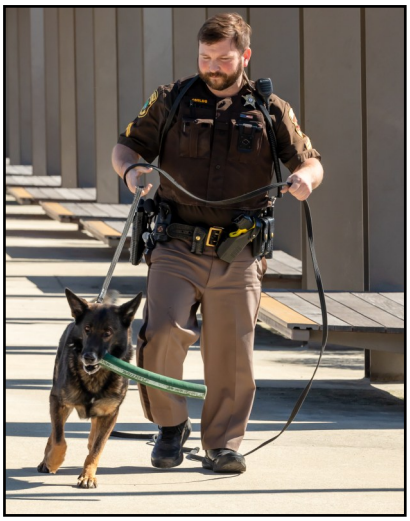

The Sheriff's Workforce saved the City more than $1 million in 2025.

Professional Standards Bureau-K-9

The NNSO has three K-9 deputies: Balko, Shiva, and Jaxson. They and their handlers work to keep people safe. They're not always seen, but their work is vital. Our K-9 teams also assist other agencies that need their special abilities.

Jail Operations

The Operations Bureau oversees everything that happens inside the Newport News City Jail and Annex. Much like a small city, it supports hundreds of individuals who rely on the Newport News Sheriff's Office for housing, meals, medical care, sanitation, laundry, and other essential daily services. Deputies assigned to the jail also maintain security, ensuring the safety of staff and inmates housed there, whether they are awaiting court proceedings or serving their sentences. In 2025, the jail was a temporary home for approximately 12,789 men and women an average of 547 per month.

Jail Operations—Booking

We closely track intakes and releases to maintain an accurate, real-time understanding of the population in our custody. This coordination enables our deputies, medical staff, and re-entry team to effectively support individuals as they enter our facility and to assist returning citizens in successfully transitioning back into the community.

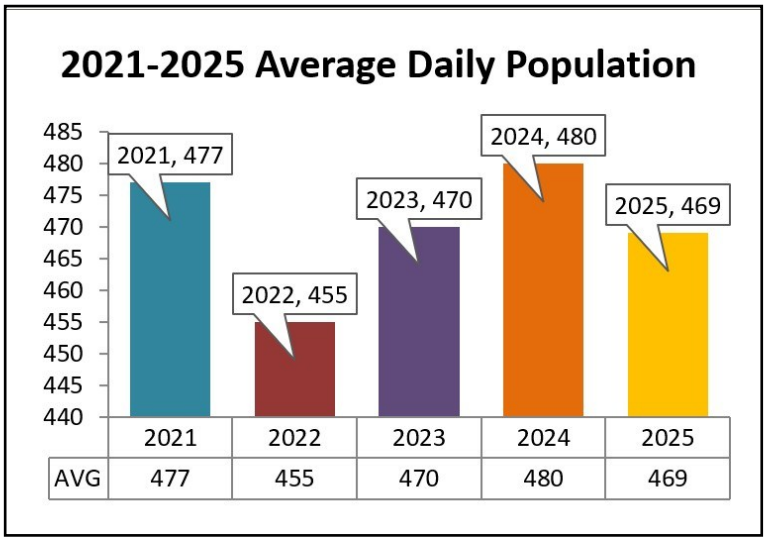

Jail Operations—Classification

Housing decisions are made through the classification process. In 2025 the main jail and annex average daily population was 469. Once a person is booked, we keep detailed records to determine housing assignments, medical and specials needs and for tracking where inmates are located. That kept the kitchen busy preparing 15,057 meals a month on average.

Jail Operations-Maintenance

The Jail Maintenance Division is made up of deputies and carefully selected inmates with the skills to complete a wide range of work in-house. These inmates, known as trustees, are supervised by deputies, allowing the Sheriff's Office to reduce reliance on outside contractors. In 2025, their efforts saved taxpayers more than $550,000.

	Total	$550,259.20

Jail Operations-Maintenance

Housing thousands of inmates each year generates a substantial volume of laundry. Staff and inmate trustees manage the cleaning of bedding and clothing within the jail's laundry operation.

Under the leadership of Sheriff Morgan, this effort also extends to the community, with trustees laundering bedding for local homeless shelters during the winter months. Bags of linens are brought to the jail. We clean them so they can be picked up the next day. This helps prevent the spread of disease in the close quarters of a shelter.

Community Outreach and Programs

The Community Outreach and Programs Bureau provides classes, training, and resources for individuals who are motivated to improve themselves while incarcerated. Participation is voluntary, though some programs may be court-ordered as part of a sentence. Self-improvement and re-entry programming—focused on preparing individuals for a successful return to the community—were among the most widely utilized offerings.
